

I had the distinct pleasure of seeing my play "For Better" in a world premiere at New Theatre. The enthusiasm of the cast, crew, and everyone working at the theatre was equal to any other I've experienced in the nation. But an even deeper delight was that this enthusiasm came back to us in the audience -- EVERYONE was having a good time creating art together, which is unfortunately not the case at all theatres. It reaffirmed why I do what I do, why we all do what we do. I look forward to future productions with New Theatre, and to working with the ever-ebullient Ricky J. Martinez again!

Eric Coble
Playwright, "For Better"